Golden State Middle School holds spelling bee, seventh-grader takes the top honors

From Golden State Middle School

Cody Coulombe, a seventh-grader on the "green" track in Golden State Middle School's year-round schedule, has won the school's spelling competition and will represent Golden State in regional competition on February 3.

The regional competition will be part of the California Central Valley Spelling Bee Program, sponsored by the Sacramento Bee.

Eighty-eight students qualified to participate in Golden State's competition last Thursday.

Khonesavanh Lattasima, a green track eighth grader, took second place in the school wide spelling bee. Chansamone Lattasima (a green track eighth grader) and Kahan Hutson (a yellow track sixth grader) tied for third place.

Other top finishers were:

From the sixth grade, Monique Little and Adrian Rodriquez from the yellow track; Mike Jones from the green track, and Jacob Potch and Martina Steeg from the red track.

CODY COULOMBE, who will represent Golden State at regional spelling bee contest

From the seventh grade, Richard Prasad of the yellow track, Stacey Yokayama of the green track and Rebekah Marshall, red track.

From the eighth grade, Kongphangh Nanthavongsa of the yellow track, Alex Allee of the green track, and David Novinger from the red track.

Riverfront plazas & public places

Members of the West Sacramento Planning Commission will give a chance to voice their opinions on the preliminary design work done for the city's riverfront master plan.

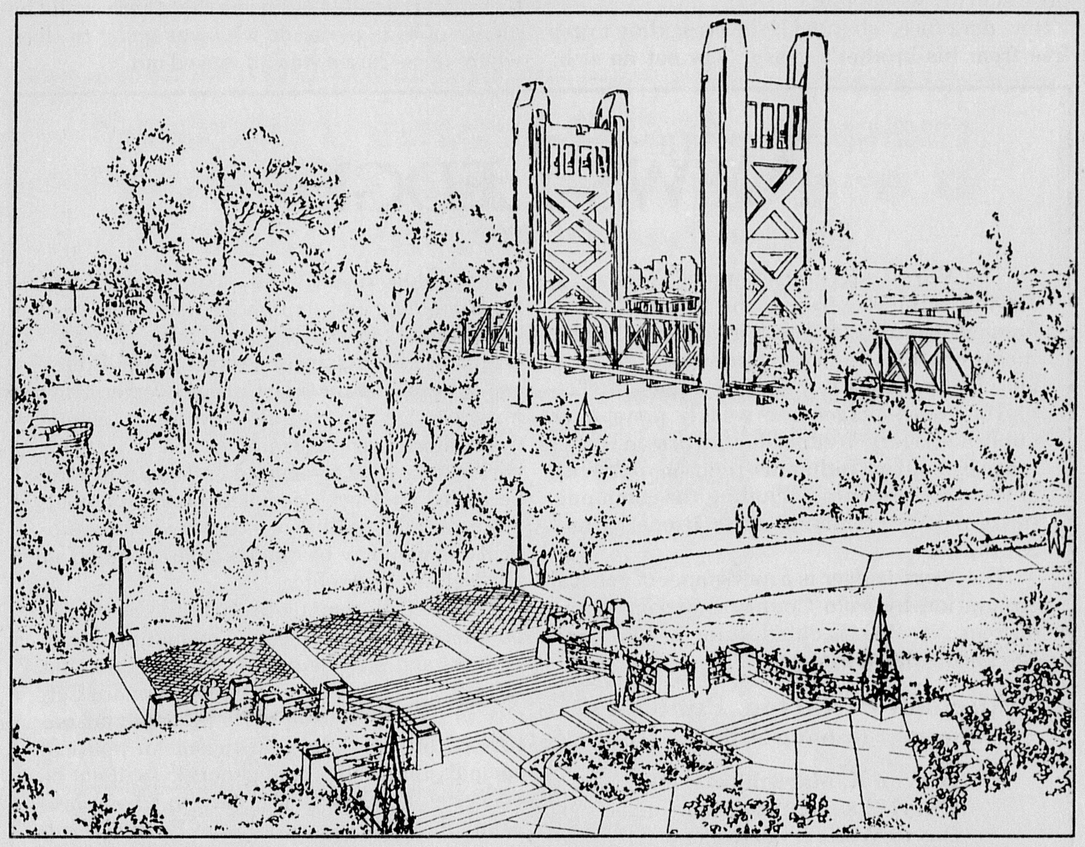

The work, performed by the Hablitzel Landscape Architectural Group (the HLA Group) details planned public improvements such as paths, parks, fishing piers and plazas along the Sacramento riverfront in West Sacramento's northeast.

The city's plans -- done partly in conjunction with planning on the Sacramento side of the river -- call for a strip of public access to the water along the entire riverfront. Urban development and multi-story buildings are hoped to fall in behind this strip of public access.

The HLA group, under a $442,120 city contract, will present its early views of the design possibilities.

Some of the main project features, according to a city staff report, include:

- Realignment of the entrance of the Broderick Boat Ramp
- Removal and replacement of the restroom at the boat ramp
- Enlargement of the boat ramp's picnic area
- A paved bicycle/pedestrian path from the boat ramp to the I St. bridge
- A "River Walk Promenade" from the I St. Bridge to the Tower Bridge, including "major," "secondary" and "observation" plazas
- A "riverfront Park between the I St. and Tower bridges
- Restoration of wildlife habitat along the river's edge.

ARTIST'S RENDERING OF A CONCEPT FOR A FUTURE "TOWER BRIDGE OBSERVATION AREA," to be constructed on the West Sacramento side of the Sacramento River just north of the Tower Bridge approach. Steps would allow the public close access to the water from a pedestrian path extending north and south along the riverfront. This concept, among others, will go before the West Sacramento City Planning Commission for its feedback on Thursday.

The planning commission will be asked to give recommendations on the design work performed so far. The public meeting will begin at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday in the West Sacramento City Council Chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd., West Sacramento.

'No contest' plea by local man in embezzlement case

■ Local resident does not admit guilt, but does accept punishment after being accused of using his post as club treasurer to embezzle from a West Sacramento senior citizens club

By Steve Marschke

Eugene Hartman of West Sacramento, 67, pled "no contest" to felony embezzlement last week, the Yolo County District Attorney's office announced.

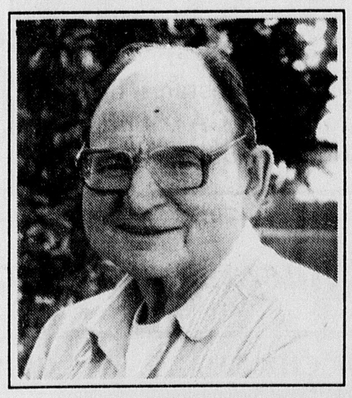

The district attorney's office had alleged that Hartman took money from the East Yolo Seniors Club from 1993 to 1994, when he was serving as the club's volunteer treasurer. He was placed on three years probation by Judge Stephen Mock, a term which was to do 180 days in the county jail, attend counseling, and pay the club $3,530 in restitution.

Hartman was also forbidden to stay away from senior club functions, and was ordered "not to harass, annoy, or bother any member or official of the East Yolo Seniors Club."

The plea was not an admission of guilt, and Hartman said Tuesday he did not take the money from the club.

"I have no idea about the money," he said. "I just went this route (the plea bargain) because the damages were great if I happened to be convicted."

Hartman said it was his understanding that he would have to serve the jail sentence, but would have to spend 90 days under "house arrest," restricted to his Cummins Way residence.

GENE HARTMAN

Hartman said the accusations of embezzling from the club stemmed from the breakup of a personal relationship he had been having with one of the club's other officers. At the time the embezzlement charges were brought, however, the woman denied having such a relationship with Hartman.

Hartman remains in litigation over another matter. When he was a Southern California resident, he was convicted of the murder of an office-mate -- a conviction which was later overturned.

Hartman has brought a lawsuit against the NBC broadcasting company, alleging the network slandered him in a recent newsmagazine segment by implying he was guilty of that crime.

Woman's body found in river; name and cause of death not yet available

A Clarksburg resident and his daughter taking a walk along the Sacramento River during the Super Bowl half-time break on Sunday spotted the body of a woman floating in the river, and called authorities.

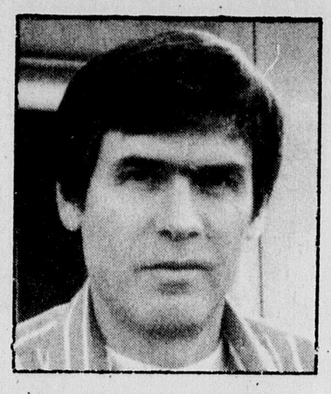

The Sheriff's Department and Clarksburg Fire Department responded and recovered the body, which was the subject of an autopsy this week.

A Yolo County Sheriff/Coroner's office spokesperson said Tuesday that the woman's identity had been established, but that her name could not yet be released until her next of kin were notified of the death. A cause of death had not yet been determined.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

A little over a month ago, my wife and I gathered up our three beloved sons and gently informed them that their soon-to-be 21-year-old big sister had a very important decision to announce to the whole family. "I've decided to move out and get my own apartment," Carrie sadly told her brothers, "and I just want you to know I'm really going to miss you guys."

"Who gets her room?" quickly asked my middle son, Paul, obviously overcome by the emotion of the moment.

"I get it," interjected my 18-year-old son, Ty. "I'm the oldest."

"But that wouldn't be fair, Dad," pleaded Paul. "Ty already has his own room. Shouldn't I get first choice?"

"But Carrie's room is a lot bigger than mine," explained Ty, "and I really need the extra space."

Paul then reached out, unceremoniously grabbed his little brother Kyle by the shirt-sleeve, dragged him over to where he was standing and said, "But I'm the one who has been stuck living with this little slob my whole life!"

"Hey, dork face," shouted Kyle, struggling to get free from his brother's grasp, "I'm not no slob. You're the slob!"

Sensing that our little family get-together wasn't going exactly as planned, I separated Paul and Kyle and reminded everyone that there would be plenty of time to decide who was going to sleep where once Carrie was all moved out.

"Where's your apartment?" Ty asked his sister.

"Over by the college."

"You'll be back," said Paul with a smile.

"Oh no I won't!" Carrie assured him with conviction.

As my wife and children continued to discuss my daughter's departure, I found my mind drifting all the way back to the cold, gray winter day I moved into my very first apartment. I was about 20-years-old at the time and sure I was starting the biggest adventure of my life.

I stocked my tiny refrigerator with a case of Big Hunk candy bars and a half-dozen boxes of 50/50 ice cream bars and energetically decorated the whole place with inexpensive wall posters of the sea and people like Bob Dylan, Robert Kennedy, and Che Guevara. I purchased some cheap lumber and a dozen or so of the ugliest cinder blocks you can image and created myself a state-of-the-art entertainment center, the centerpiece of which was an ancient 19-inch black and white portable television set that needed rabbit ears just to get in a few UHF channels.

Then I confidently sat back on my thread bare sofa, which had more coffee stains on the outside than it did springs on the inside, and waited patiently for the hoards of beautiful young ladies I was sure would be knocking down my front door once they heard that Daryl Fisher had his own pad. Days later, exhausted from straining my ears for knocks which never materialized, I pulled back my bedroom window curtain only to discover that my little den of inequity was situated right next door to a funeral home. So, instead of participating in wild all-night parties and waking up next to wicked older women, I actually spent my first few weeks of living all by myself watching cadavers come and go at all hours of the day and night.

Later that evening, as the realization that my only daughter was about to leave home finally began to sink in, I found myself recalling everything from the very first minute I laid eyes on her bald and bloody head to the time she got a lego stuck in her throat but somehow still managed to say, "I love you, Daddy," as she started to turn purple and I began to wonder if that damn Heimlich maneuver was ever going to work.

Then, of all things, as I helped her pack up some of her things, I suddenly remembered an old Andy and Barney episode where Opey takes out his slingshot and shoots a rock up into a tree of nesting birds. The rock hits the mother bird and she falls dead to the ground at Opey's feet. Opey, feeling really bad that he has killed a living thing, decides that the least he can do is raise the three baby birds he finds in the nest. He names them Winkin', Blinkin', and Nod and for months, he hunts down worms and tiny insects and hand feeds them to the baby birds. Then he moves them into a bigger cage where they can be warm and safe from cats. And before he knows it, the baby birds are babies no more. "You did a fine job, son," Andy tells Opey. "But there's one more thing you got to do."

"What's that?" asks Opey, hoping to get an even bigger cage and keep the birds as pets.

"They're ready to fly," explains Andy. "You've got to let them go -- the way nature intended."

Reluctantly, one at a time, Opey tosses Winkin', Blinkin', and Nod up towards the very same branches where he first found them, only to quickly discover that he already misses them. "It's sure going to be quiet around here with them gone," says Opey sadly.

"But don't the trees sound so nice and full," says Andy as he listens to the happily chirping birds.

How about them Cowboys!

Super Bowl XXX has come and gone and the Dallas Cowboys are the World Champions. The Cowboys beat Pittsburgh 27-17 to win their fifth Super Bowl. The Cowboys join the 49ers as five-time Super Bowl champions. The game was one of the best Super Bowl games in a long time.

The Cowboys were hanging on to a 20-17 lead in the fourth quarter and the Steelers were driving for a last minute score. But with less than six minutes left to play, Steelers QB Neil O'Donnell threw his third interception of the day, and the Cowboys scored a last-minute touchdown to wrap up the victory. Cowboys' defensive back Larry Brown was named MVP of the game.

Next year's Super Bowl game will be played in New Orleans.

The Sacramento Kings (22-16) are 6 1/2 games behind Seattle in the Pacific Division. The Kings and Lakers are tied for second place, but look out for the Lakers, who signed Magic Johnson to a one-year $2.5 million contract. The good news for the Kings is that they only play the Lakers one more time (March 7 at Arco Arena), so Magic won't be a big problem.

The bad news for the Kings is that they play Michael Jordan and the Bulls, who are 38-3, on Thursday at the Arco Arena.

Boxing comes back to town on Feb. 12 with West Sac's Willie Jorrin as the main event at the Radisson Hotel.

See ya next week!!

Microbes that may mean a lot to West Sacramento

You can bet a lot of folks in West Sacramento are examining with great interest a new study made public out of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory last week.

The study concluded something that may be music to the ears of a lot of gas station owners, petroleum tank farm owners, and those who are thinking of buying and redeveloping land formerly used for such purposes.

Essentially, the study said that underground gasoline leaks tend to take care of themselves about as efficiently as we can clean them up. Unless the spills threaten groundwater or pose some other sort of problem, you are often better off cleaning up a contaminated site by simply removing the source of the pollution and then waiting for nature's microbes to break down what was spilled.

This way, many landowners may be able to avoid costly cleanups in the future.

Underground tanks leak. Just about every gas station, it seems, has a lot of gasoline in the soil, and this often prevent's the re-development of a gas station site.

West Sacramento has a lot of gas and petroleum product tank farms above ground, as well, and these too have been the source of leaks. One such leak, which does not appear to threaten area well water or the Sacramento River, has been tracked for several years in the South River Road/Jefferson Blvd. area.

Will the Livermore study mean that cleanups of such spills will no longer be mandated in most cases? Will this mean the easier re-use of land which was formerly used to hold gas products?

Possibly. And this would be big news to those owning South River Road tank farms. Their riverfront property is often considered as a prime candidate for "higher," people-oriented uses such as marinas and restaurants in the future.

But of course, we would be silly to base any kind of a sweeping policy change on one study. The issue will have to be scrutinized by other scientists and other studies, to determine just under what circumstances nature can clean up after us, and when it is best that we clean up after ourselves.

In the meantime, we'll just have to rely on the best available information as well as a little common sense.

Letters to the Editor

Drain woes

192 days and counting since the City unilaterally terminated bus service for Welcome Grove Mobile Park. All from a neglected repair of a drain on West Capitol Avenue at the railroad underpass. This seems typical for a City lead by managers who consider fines for pollution by the State of California business as usual.

Those recent fines were very justified but those managers should have paid those fines out of their pockets. The West Sacramento sewer plant was state-of-the-art when it was built and is still an excellent plant if it is operated properly. Buses also reduce pollution but who can we get to fine them for reducing the bus service. Maybe they notice polluters and this is ignored because we're on the wrong side of the tracks. Sure not everyone rides buses, but a few of us do.

Commentary:

Assembly bill would 'raid' public transit

From Yolo County Transit Authority

The Yolo County Transit Authority and University Transport System (Unitrans) strongly oppose legislation introduced by Assemblymember Bernie Richter (R--Chico) that would allow for a statewide raid on California's Transportation Development Act (TDA) funds.

AB 2084 would allow for TDA funds (1/4 of one penny sales tax), which are currently earmarked for public transit systems, bicycle projects and roads, to be diverted into county government programs. This bill will destroy public transit's and road's ability to provide critical services and repairs.

TDA is collected on a county-wide basis and redistributed to the counties and cities on a population formula. AB 2084 would allow County government to skim as much TDA money as it wants rights off the top, placing it in the County general fund, and taking it away from the cities, including transit and road projects.

"TDA funds have been the lifeblood of California transit for the past 25 years," stated Jerry Kaneko, Chair of the Yolo County Transit Authority (YCTA).

Terry Bassett, YCTA's Executive Director, said "Without these funds, YCTA, which operates YOLOBUS service plus services for the frail elderly and disabled (nearly 800,000 rides/year county-wide), would be forced to eliminate virtually all service. Likewise, the Unitrans bus system, which serves the Davis and U.C. Davis campus (1.5 million rides/year) would be forced to drastically reduce its service. Transit systems are already operating in a financial crisis situation. We cannot afford to lose $4.3 million in funding that TDA provides for transit and road projects. In Yolo County, TDA provides over $1.5 million per year to improve city streets and county roads."

"This bill simply adds insult to injury for public transit, which is already facing a 44 percent reduction in federal operating assistance this year," Bassett said. "The saddest part of this bill is that it pits cities against counties," he added.

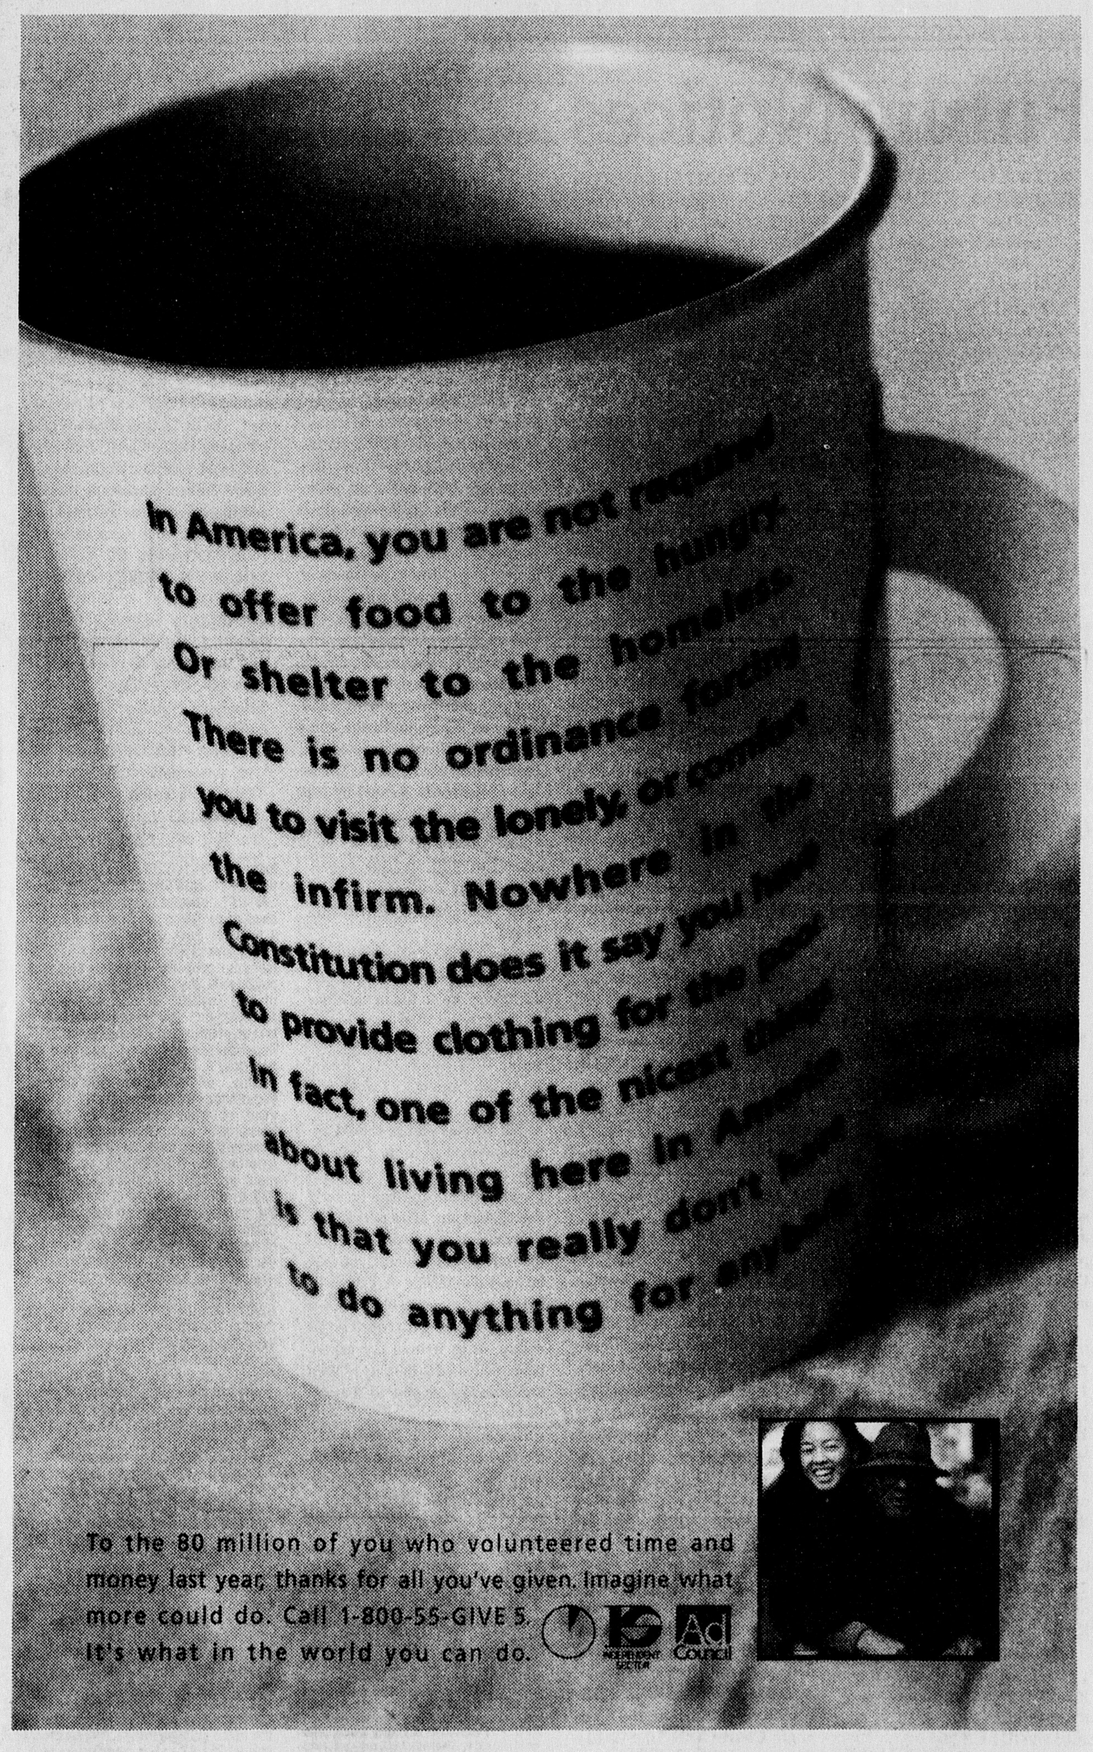

Last year, approximately $700 million in TDA funds were distributed statewide. Of that money, 85 percent was used to provide bus, light rail and special transportation services.

Jim McElroy, general manager of the Unitrans system in Davis, aid "Unitrans and transit in Yolo County have worked hard to be efficient and it doesn't make sense to transfer the meager funding that's available for public transit to other purposes."

TDA funds have already been raided this past year, when Governor Wilson signed bailout bills SB 727 and AB 1664 in an attempt to lend aid to financially troubled Los Angeles and Orange Counties. These bills will leave Los Angeles transit agencies $50 million in the hole and Orange County transit agencies $570 million short. The tragedy of these major funding raids is that they relate to poor fiscal management on the part of Los Angeles and Orange Counties. While other counties, such as Yolo, undertook successful efforts to streamline government, these two counties didn't.

Making the matter worse in Orange County was the investment debacle which occurred two years ago, where billions were lost due to risky investments. The TDA bailout can be directly attributed to the financial crisis Orange County brought on itself.

"Allowing these funds to be raided will directly impact our system's ability to operate and, therefore, harm our riders," concluded Kaneko. "People rely on public transit on a daily basis. The powers that be need to realize that AB 2084 in the long run will cripple our state's transit systems and hurt our communities and may well sound the death nail for public transit. It will also jeopardize many critical road maintenance and improvement projects which are underway."

Coming to high school stage: 'The Nerd'

"The Nerd," River City Thespians' spring play, opens March 7 at Yolo High. The traditional ABC gala (performance and party honoring the cast and crew) will be March 15. Invitations will be in the mail by mid-February.

ABC is an organization which has worked for most of the 18 years the Thespians have offered plays at Yolo High School. It has been composed of students, faculty, community members, parents and alumni of the Thespians. Together, with grants obtained through district assistance, the funds raised by ABC has made possible the conversion of the elementary school auditorium to a performing arts center with modern sound and light. Other projects of ABC have included support of the visual arts at River City.

Not only have the River City Thespians under the direction of Roy Engoron established a reputation for great theater (permission to produce such as Larry She's "Foreigner" and now "The Nerd") usually reserved for professional companies has been given to them.

The cast has been rehearsing since November and includes Megan Cushing, Tony Venditti, Brian Kinney, Leah Christian, Christian Tillmanns, Sarah Templin and Scott Hampton.

A PETITION has been filed by DOUGLAS A. KAPLAN, PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION requests that Douglas A. Kaplan, Public Administrator, be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

'95 grad gets Presidential Scholarship

Hoang Truong receives Presidential Scholarship from Sacramento State President Donald Gerth.

By Raquel De La Paz
Staff Writer

Congratulations, Hoang Truong! Truong, a 1995 River City High School graduate was selected as one of twenty students to receive a five hundred dollar Presidential Scholarship at California State University, Sacramento. All students selected were 1995 high school honor graduates and are now enrolled at CSUS.

A reception was held on December 1st to honor the students and their families at the CSUS campus. The money they receive will be used to assist with registration fees for the spring semester at CSUS.

CSUS President Donald Gerth said,"We take great pleasure in recognizing and rewarding academic excellence. These hard-working and dedicated students--members of the CSUS class of 1999--are the future leaders of our community."

River City High School is proud of the accomplishments of this bright alumnus.

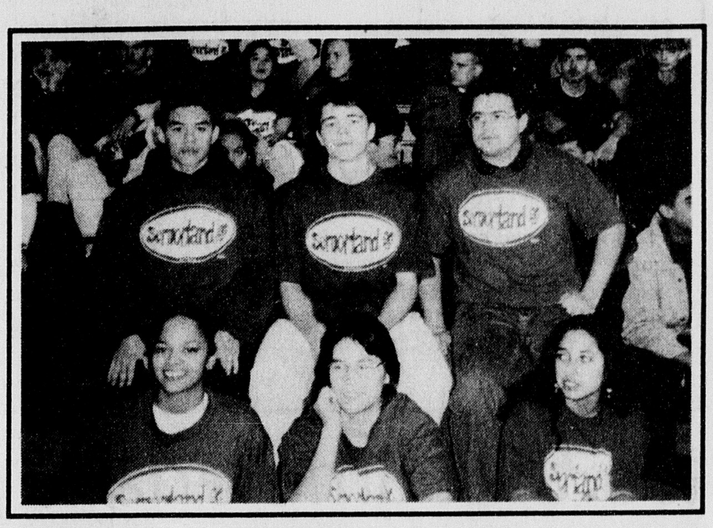

Basketball Homecoming a first for River City Raiders

By Rishi Sharma
Staff Writer

River City High School held its first ever basketball homecoming last Friday. The homecoming was full of floats, games, royalty, a rally, and, of course, a game that same night. Each class made a float on the homecoming theme, cereals. The freshmen chose Rice Krispies, the sophomores, Kix and Frosted Flakes, juniors chose Fruity Pebbles, and seniors Lucky Charms.

Instead of using trailers for floats, the classes used shopping carts, loaned by Safeway. The seniors won the float competition with their Lucky sliding down a rainbow surrounded by the symbols from Lucky Charms. The juniors came in second, freshmen third, and sophomores took fourth.

Instead of having a spirit week for this homecoming, the Leadership class decided to hold a hacky sack competition. Team two, made up of Jonathan Davis, Shawn Butler, Peter Esta, and Jose Peralta, won the competition. On day one teams were judged on the amount of hacks they had. On day two, teams were judged on how well they did in a free-style competition. Judges were Ms. Johnson, Mr. Mesquita, Mr. Hall, and a student familiar with hacky sack competitions.

Senior royalty candidates: top, Eddie Tacdol, Sergei Mysin, and Julio Gomez; bottom, Niki Hussein, Celia Gutierrez, and Shelly Taunk

Much like the football homecoming, the basketball homecoming had royalty. The senior king, Sergei Mysin, was announced at the half time of the junior varsity game, and the queen, Niki Hussein was announced at the varsity half time.

Freshman royalty were Sal Aceves and Lindsay Fortune. Sophomore royalty were Marty Trevino and Gabby Salas. Junior royalty were Brian Sidhu and Jennifer Scruggs.

River City played Bear River homecoming night, and won the junior varsity game 54-47, but the varsity team lost a heartbreaker, 59-52. Details of the game appear elsewhere in the News-Ledger.

Academic Decathlon team meets Superquiz challenge

By Fouzia Fazel
Staff Writer

On most of the teams at River City brawn is needed to win, but on this team brains are needed. The Academic Decathlon teams were announced on January 23. Students who excel are chosen for the three teams: honor, scholastic and varsity.

Honor team members are Sean High, Bethany Monroe and Arsalan Yusufzai. Scholastic team members are Chris Cardoza, Jayson Gawthorpe and Barbara Silveira. And varsity team members include Josh Cox, Thang Taing and Michael Vasquez.

Academic Decathlon is a scholastic competition which covers ten subjects including math, science, economics and speech. This year Mrs. Higgins and Ms. Carlisle are teaching Academic Decathlon as an honors-level class.

The competition will take place this Saturday at Woodland High. The public is invited at 3pm for the Superquiz. So, River City, come and cheer for your team as they compete with other high schools.

Chris Tyler honored by students

Staff of the month likes Beatles and sports

By Mirthala Santizo
Staff Writer

Mrs. Tyler, one of RC's physical education teachers, is November's Staff of the Month. Mrs. Tyler has been teaching for Washington Unified School District for 24 years, 18 here at River City and six at Washington High School (where Golden State Middle is now). She likes RC the best because she loves the students. She likes being a PE teacher because she gets to know the students at a more personal level. "I decided to be a PE teacher because I love sports. I like to be outside, and I like the students," she said.

Besides playing sports, Mrs. Tyler likes watching students play sports, but most of all she loves to watch her sons play. Even though she doesn't have a favorite sport, she loves to play badminton because she says that she can still beat almost all of her students. Mrs. Tyler used to coach girls softball and volleyball, but she doesn't do it anymore because her family keeps her busy. During her softball coaching days, she took her team to eight playoffs, won sections three years in a row and in one year was rated #1 in the state.

This Cal State Hayward graduate loves being with her family and being a taxi driver for her three boys. She also likes to ski, go camping, sew and make different kinds of crafty items. Her favorite musicians are the Beatles and she loves the song "Hey, Jude." She also loves to travel. Her favorite trip was going around Europe with a friend. "It's the best way to learn about the world," she said. She wants to go the Panama Canal and go back to Europe.

Even though Mrs. Tyler is not coaching anymore, she is still into school activities. She's the co-coordinator of Link Crew and is on the Renaissance committee. She believes that Link Crew is a great program because it gets the freshmen started off on the right track and gives the juniors and seniors leadership skills. Mrs. Tyler says that Renaissance is a great program, also, because its an incentive to do well.

Mock Trial team courts victory

Competition takes place at the Sacramento County Courthouse this Saturday

By Mirthala Santizo
Staff Writer

20 year-old Jesse Caufield has been accused of car jacking, assault, and robbery. What is this about? This is the case that the River City Mock Trial team has been practicing diligently all semester for the competition currently taking place at the Sacramento County Courthouse. They finished Round 1 last Tuesday.

Defendant Jesse Caufield, played by junior Richard Camacho, is accused of assaulting a customer at the Quiki Mart and stealing his car and wallet. "I feel really confident about this case," said Richard Camacho. "We have a really strong case and it's fun and a trip playing this part. The donuts are excellent."

He's represented by the defense lawyers, junior Jason Potnick, sophomore Rishi Sharma, and senior Andradi Villalobos. The prosecution, representing the State of California, are all seniors: Ty Fisher, Raquel Peralta, and, again, Andradi Villalobos. "I think this year we're very prepared. We want to show other schools what we can do," said Raquel Peralta. "I think our team has worked more together rather than as individuals," she added.

Veteran Mock Trial member, Ty Fisher said, "Out of the three teams I've been in, this is by far the most prepared one I've seen. We expect to do well."

Both sides have pre-trial motion attorneys: foreign exchange student and senior Tanja Cukon representing prosecution and junior Sarah Vanderford representing defense. "This is my first experience in Mock Trial. It's exciting to be in an American trial," said Tanja Cukon.

Mr. Mesquita, their coach, has worked many hours during and after school helping the team prepare. He has been the Mock Trial coach for eight years. Recently they competed with Christian Brothers in a practice round. "I feel real good about this years's Mock Trial team," said Mr. Mesquita. "They have been working very hard. In the practice round they were one of the most prepared. I think that means that we'll be doing very well this year."

"We have a really strong case and it's fun and a trip playing this part. The donuts are excellent."
-- Richard Camacho

Just as important as the defendant, the prosecution and defense witnesses have worked hard with lawyers and each other. Witnesses for the prosecution are Melissa Ferrell, junior; Leslie Lamkin, junior; Maricel Ramirez, junior; and Jeremiah Wenneker, freshman. Defense witnesses are Andrea Alcanter, sophomore: Andrea Kay Smith, senior; and Nav Singh, senior. The time keeper is Shawntay Washington.

Lawyers from the community have also helped the team prepare for the competition. They are defense attorney Denise Standridge, civil attorney Lori Senette, and prosecution attorney Geoff Lauter.

The Mock Trial team will compete in Round 2 at 5:30 pm tomorrow, and in Rounds 3 and 4 on Saturday at 8:00 and 10:00 am at the Sacramento County Courthouse. Students are encouraged to come and support the Mock Trial team.

Rojo rides a wave to Raider of the Month

By Mirthala Santizo
Staff Writer

Year-around sport player, Anthony Rojo, a senior, is November's Raider of the Month. Anthony has been playing football for four years, baseball for two years and also baseball outside of school for many years. Anthony says that his favorite sport is football because he gets to hit people and hurt them. But, he doesn't only play sports. He also contributes his time to the yearbook.

Anthony manages to do extracurricular activities out of school without hurting his 3.0 GPA. He likes to go boogie boarding at Stimson Beach. "I like the rush of ten-foot waves coming at me," he said, "and I also have to watch out for sharks."

Anthony also likes to play pool, lift weights, and play Q-Zar. He has traveled to many places in Mexico with his grandparents, including Alcapulco, Mexico City, and his favorite place, Mazatlan. "It's small and there's not a lot of tourists there," he said.

Besides being busy, he enjoys listening to his favorite band, Too Short, and eating his favorite food, steak. "I like steak because my stomach told me so," he explained.

Anthony has one sister, Natasha, a sophomore. He also has a fiancee, Senior Trisha Warford.

His classes are economics, PE Weights, TA Weights, Business Computers, Yearbook, and Desktop Publishing. His favorite class is Weights. "I like Weights because you never know what Coach Baker is going to do," he explained. Anthony plans to go to Yuba College in Marysville and major in computers.

Anthony describes himself as irresistible, outgoing, thoughtful, and generous. "He's generous because he's always giving people stuff," said his friend Reina Alvarez, "and he's a nice guy with others."

Raiderscopes

The only horoscope created especially for you

By Madame Heidi
Viking Fortune Teller

This month The Review has come up with Raiderscopes as a new addition. Madame Heidi felt that the beginning of 1996 would be a perfect time to show off her mystical powers to the wonderful students of River City. Since it is a leap year the Zodiac is all out of sync. The Viking version is much more accurate. Just look for the month you were born and your fortune will be told.

Armadillo (January) Watch out for flying bowls. You worry too much about things that really don't matter or don't need to be worried about at all. Take a chance, you paranoid fool.

Monkey (February) Good fortune is upon you but your fortune is someone elses pain. Consider close friends around you. Quit being so greedy and stingy. What's up with that, Scrooge! Hair may appear in strange places so pay attention.

Do-Do Bird (March) You are keeping a secret from someone close to you. If you don't reveal it soon guilt will eat away at you and sooner or later your head will blow up.

Hyena (April) You take too many chances. Be cautious this weekend or you might run into a wall and your nose is much too pretty for that. Your chances with the one you love are dwindling. Get on the ball. No one is going to come to you.

Yak (May) Ah! Ah! Ah! You've made someone mad! Stay clear of angry people, they might stick something unpleasant in your food.
Someone you don't expect is looking at you in a new light. Give it a chance. You might find your soul mate.

Donkey (June) Someone you know will turn out not to be all you thought they were. Give them a break...you dance in front of the mirror in your underwear, too!

Blow Fish (July) You are being a real grouch lately and you are annoying your friends. What goes around comes around and you might end up alone this Friday night if you don't chill out. Even your pets will turn against you.

Toad (August) Quit trippin'! You aren't all that. You talk so much about yourself that your head is getting enormous. If you don't stop you will no longer be able to get into the bathroom to look at yourself because your head won't fit.

Cockroach (September) You are too angry right now. Taking your problems out on everyone else will make you lose friends and you will grow up to be an old grouch that sits around watching old reruns of Three's Company and talking to your cat.

Slug (October) Your special someone has got fire in their eyes and you might get burned. Don't get too caught up that you are too blind to see the truth. Little hints are the best. If you go to a party don't fall asleep because you might wake up looking like Dennis Rodman.

Chicken (November) What ever you do, don't listen to the advice of a certain someone with the initials J.M. or a large red mark will appear across your face. A old love will return into your life. Consider the consequences, you have been hurt before.

Sloth (December) Beware! Don't fall asleep with gum in your mouth, or you will wake up with a sticky surprise. You are neglecting your loved one and they might find new prospects. Quit whining and take some action or it will be too late.

It's that time again!

Make note: Madrigal singer is chosen as Raider of the Month

Julie Kolar maintains 4.0 while working at Raley's 30 hours a week.

By Mirthala Santizo
Staff Writer

Who's a hard working student that works at Raley's for about 30 hours a week? Senior Julie Kolar. She's also November's Raider of the Month. Aside from being a Madrigal singer, Julie doesn't do a lot of extracurricular activities. She has been extremely busy with homework and her job which gets her work experience credit for school. She always wanted to play softball and girls soccer, but couldn't because of her tough work schedule. Even though she has to work all the time, she still maintains her 4.0 GPA.

Julie has two brothers, but they live with her mother and she lives with her father. Italian food is just one of her favorite things. Julie likes to play basketball with her boyfriend in her free time and likes to listen to her favorite music, country. She also likes to travel up to Clear Lake by Lake Tahoe.

Julie liked her freshman year the best, but her favorite year for spirit was her sophomore year. "I liked my sophomore year because everyone had spirit and we won the spirit wheel," she explained.

Her classes are English 121, Geometry, Government, Madrigals and Work Experience. After high school she plans to go to American River College for two years and then transfer to Sacramento State to get her nursing degree.

Julie describes herself as being responsible. "I think that I'm very responsible because I always take care of myself. I balance my money well, take my work seriously, and get things done. But, I feel that I had to grow up faster because of circumstances."

Team has 'Brite' season

Women's varsity basketball enjoys most successful season in recent history

By Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

"They're always giving 100%. We're working hard and improving a lot," said Coach Brite, the new head coach of the womens varsity basketball team. The rookie head coach teaches U.S. government, economics, and world history at River City.

Coach Brite has some coaching experience, having served as an assistant coach last year at Chico State University. She also worked at basketball camps during most of her summers.

With six wins as of last Friday, this is the most successful womens team in recent history.

"We are focusing on the fundamentals of basketball and the idea of being a team," said Coach Brite. "Hopefully, we will reach our potential and make the playoffs this season," she added.

Muslim students observe Ramadan

By Fouzia Fazel
Staff Writer

Once a year, throughout the world, Muslims engage in a month-long fast during the month of Ramadan, the ninth month of the Islamic calendar. From dawn to sunset, all Muslims whose health permits are to refrain completely from food, drink and other pleasurable activities from sunrise to sunset. Ramadan is a time for spiritual discipline for expressing appreciation for God's guidance and forgiveness for past sins, for awareness of human weakness and dependence on God, as well as for remembering and responding to the needs of the poor and hungry.

Many Muslim students at RC are experiencing Ramadan right now. This year the month-long fast began on Sunday January 21, which is fortunate for the Muslims, since the days are shorter in the winter. If it had fallen in the summer, RC students and other Muslims would have to deal with the severe heat and the long daylight hours.

Relief comes at dusk, when the fast is broken for the day by a big meal. Many will go to the mosque for the evening prayer.

The month of Ramadan comes to an end with a great celebration, the Feast of the Breaking of the Fast. This resembles Christmas. Family members get dressed up and feast in a celebration for three days.

So teachers, if you're seeing a change in your Muslim students, now you know why. So, go easy on the homework, will ya'?

Former Olympian advises young athletes

By Jessica Honsinger
Staff Writer

In the middle of the 1968 Olympics, a 16 year old American named Debbie Meyers won the world's heart--and three gold medals! Meyers went to Mexico City to swim that summer, and swim she did. She raced in three events: The 200, 400, and 800 meter freestyle (which is the equivalent of approximately 8, 16, and 32 laps in River City's pool), and won golds in all three. The most amazing thing is, she had only been swimming competitively since she was eight years old. If that seems like a long time to swim before making the Olympic team, remember that a lot of people swim for a much longer amount of time, and never get close to the Olympics.

All people, whether they win awards or not, are inspired or encouraged by someone. Meyers was no exception. Her family and parents were there, cheering her on. Her parents were her confidants. Meyers' coach, Sherm Shavoor, was also a big inspiration. One of Meyers' biggest inspirations, though, was fellow swimmer Mike Burton, who also won two gold medals in Mexico City. Burton went on to the 1972 Olympics in Munich, where he won another gold.

The win changed Meyers' life dramatically or, as she puts it, "threw it into turmoil." She had always liked her privacy, but she lost it, since reporters and journalists were constantly calling, and mail was pouring in. Meyers seemed to have no time to herself.

Since the Olympics, Meyers has been in the public eye quite a bit. She has worked with CBS Sports Spectacular, was a promotions director for Speedo Swimwear in fourteen western states, and was a swimming coach at California State University, Sacramento. Meyers now owns a swim school in Carmichael called (Surprise!) Debbie Meyer Swim School.

Debbie Meyers still doesn't know "why" she won the Olympic medals, but she would do it all over again if she could. Her advice to people who want to succeed in sports is to "set your goals not too far out of reach. Take it one step at a time, do your best, but most importantly, HAVE FUN!"

Youth Commission discusses teen hangout

By Rishi Sharma
Youth Commissioner

How would you like a hangout? A place where you could go after a football game, or relax on Friday nights? Well, the West Sacramento Youth Commission took a trip to see a similar program in the City of San Pablo, and the Youth Commission is holding a special meeting on February 7th to discuss the topic. All teenagers/high school students are encouraged to attend. The meeting will take place in the Department of Parks and Community Services conference room, 1901 South River Road. For more information please call 373-5860, or 373-5877.

Other items the Youth Commission is considering include a joint meeting with the City Council sometime in February to discuss ideas and review the goals of the Youth Commission. The Youth Commission hopes to hold a joint meeting with the Parks and Community Services Commission and the Aging Commission in March.

April showers bring spring sports to RC

Coaches predict teams will be on the ball this spring

By Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

The time of year is on it's way when the sun shines, the skies clear, when April showers bring May flowers, and when spring sports arrive at River City.

Most spring coaches feel that their teams will be competing well this year, which should inspire more fans to come out and have fun and support their teams.

"We want to improve, enjoy, and learn the game of golf so that we can become more competitive," said Coach Jon West, who will put down his basketball and pick up his golf clubs.

Long-time RC baseball coach Andy Lo Forte observed with a grin, "If we get some pitching, then we will become real competitive, but if we don't, then we will have to just keep on scoring lots of runs." The baseball team was a playoff team last year, ending the season with a record of 14-9. They lost in the second round of the playoffs to the Vanden Vikings. "We had a really good season. We were tied for second place after losing to Lincoln in a championship game," Coach La Forte concluded.

Women's soccer coach Gary Restivo predicts a good season. "I feel that we will do a lot better. We have some experience which should help us do much better this season," he said. "We lost every game last season, but we kept on trying," he added.

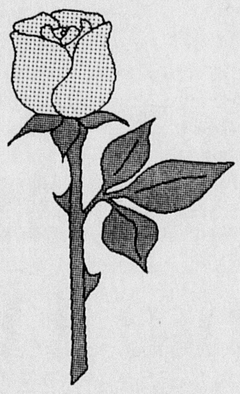

Tim Hannagan, who coaches varsity softball, feels very confident in his team. "I think it will come down to Bear River and River City, but if we work hard, we will win the league championship." Coach Hannagan and his players were not satisfied by last year's performance and they want to make up for it this season. "We have a veteran team. We have all of the ability and the talent, but in order to win the league championship, our ladies must give it 100%. We would always like more support, but we are not worried if the fans will come out and support us. We must win the games for ourselves first," the coach continued emphatically.

It appears that this spring season will be very competitive and exciting, so give some support to the teams that represent you.

February 14th

The day dawns
As any other
But it is special
It is real
It is the day
For the lovers
To express
How they feel
Shown with roses
Red as rubies
Or with jewels
Sparkling bright
Yummy chocolates, or maybe
A stuffed bear
To squeeze tight
Or...
Simply their love
The best gift of all
To show they care
And love you so
The day of love
Is upon us
This special day
For love to flow

'Loose, free' watercolors on display at Turner

By Betty Fairbairn Sokolich
Friends of the Library

The Arthur Turner Library exhibit for February and March will be a group show of the Paint-out Group of Watercolor Artists of Sacramento Horizons (W.A.S.H.) including Joan Gunther; Nancy Haley; David Kahn; Mae Delle Leino; Mary Marshall; Ruth McCormick; Jan Miskulin; Vance Stanford; Betty Fairbairn Sokolich; Delores Sunley; and Bob Tonjes.

These artists follow the tradition of the British landscape painters of the 19th century, such as John Constable and J.M.W. Turner, as well as the "Plein Air" impressionist painters in France, for instance, Claude Monet and Paul Cezanne. Painting on location inspires the artist to interpret the scene with an individual expression of either a representational realistic style or in a looser, freer, more abstract way. The variety of styles shown adds spice to the exhibit.

The public is cordially invited to meet the artists at the reception to be held February from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The exhibit can be viewed during regular library hours. East Yolo Friends of the Library sponsors the exhibits.
